MOVEMENT WAS WIDER

Although Activity in Prices Was Confined to Special Stocks of Dominant Class.

LEADERS WERE SLUGGISH

Downward Course of Railroad Earnings Destroys Hopes of Dividends.

(By Associated Prets.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—There was a slightly wider movement of prices in today's stock market than the recent average, but this was largely confined to special stocks of the dormant class. The usual market leaders were sluggish and neglected, and their narrow fluctuations cannot be accepted as indicative of any widely held opinion on the market.

Many of the low priced stocks which sold off sharply to-day have had the appearance of speculative affinities in the past under pool manipulation, and the suggestions put affoat in the course of this past manipulation have applied a possibility of some ultimate combination between a number of such roads.

possibility of some ultimate combination between a number of such roads. The common interest in these stocks of a speculative party of some promi-nence has constituted a vantage point of a speculative party of some plant nence has constituted a vantage point for speculative operations in the group under leadership. The selling of these stocks for the last few days is attributed by the sellers to fears that the holdings of the speculative party have been largely reduced and supporting measures for the securities in the market abandoned. The downward course of railroad earnings destroys the hopes of dividends, which were distantly prospective at best. The course of events following the break of the corner in cotton, and the speculative collapse incident to it, have a bearing on the speculative attitude towards the stocks thus involved. A number of the Southwestorn Railroad stocks suffered also from professed uneasiness over their financial prospects. There were some recoveries by the weak stocks and the last prices in the general list were little changed from last night. There were sugested at a decline of 25-12 points of the Detroit Southern fours, the June coupon, on which it is proposed to fund. The bond market was dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, il.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 1.—After a steady opening with first prices 5 points higher to 2 points lower in response to cables the cotton market to-day broke sharply and ruled weak during the entire session, closing within a point or 1 of the bottom and barely steady at a decimal of the point of the cotton and barely steady at a decimal of the point of the steady at a decimal of the steady at th the antire session. Cleans within a point or 3 of the bottom and barely steady at a decline of 12453 points.

The opening steadiness was confined chiefly to the old crop positions and restricted moderate covering by shorts who feared that the steadier cabies and the better demand for spot cotton in the English market might start a reaction afer the recent severe decline. A couple of private crop reports were also in circulation, showing the condition to react the culation, showing the condition to respect the couple of private crop reports were also in circulation, showing the condition to respect and possibly helped in the initial firmness. This, however, was of very short duration. The weather over the South was generally favorable, there was no indication of bull support or of a renewal of spot demand, and shortly after the opening a raid by the Wall Street bear interests, following report that New Oricans was selling, depreters, under which July broke to 12.15. At this level covering steadied the market momentarily, and there was a recovery of about 10 points, but the market showed no improvement in point of undertone and readily yielded to another wave of bear pressure in the afternoon, which drove July through the 12 cent market with that position selling as low as 11.35 or a net decline of 55 points. July closed on the production, and there was a raily more or less excitement as price, worked lower, while several sensational stories were set affoat as to speculative conditions. Sales estimated at 400,00 bales.

Receipt at the ports to-day were 2829 bales.

Cotton futures opened stendy and closed bare-June ......11.98 High. Low. Close.

OLD LINES TO BE TIGHTLY DRAWN

Factions to Contend for Mastery in Second and Third Districts. Districts.

When the various district caucuses meet here next Thursday morning, to make their recommendations to the State Democratic Convention, which will assemble at noon on that day, some lively times are expected, but in none of them will the factional struggles be half so spirited, from present indications, as in the Second and Third Districts meetings.

the Second and Third Districts meetings.

In both, Governor Montague and Senator Martin have strong support, and although the senatorial battle is yet a year in the future, the lines are tightly drawn on this issue, and every time there is a vote on any question this one crops out in one way or another.

Down in the Second, Captain W. W. Dey, the reform leader of Norfolk, and at present a member of the State Central Committee, is making a game fight to re-at present a member of the State Central Committee, is making a game fight to retain his seat in that body, and to carry through his colleagues with him, while it is said that the Martin-Trehy wing will cail for a new "cut, shuffle and deal." The lines are similarly drawn in the Third District.

Colonel John S. Harwood, of this city, a member of the Governor's staff, wants another term on the State Committee, but the Martin forces are lining up belief former Committeeman Clyde W. Saunders, and they will look for a death grapple when the convention meets.

grapple when the convention meets.

Whichever faction shall control in the district meetings will distribute all the honors and some spirited struggles are expected before, as well as after, the general convention meets.

NARROW ESCAPE OF TWO YOUTHS

Thrown from a Bicycle on the Street Between Two Street Cars.

Two youngsters named Roscoe Cosby and Henry Kelly had narrow escapes from serious injury yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock at Thirteenth and Main Streets.

about 6 o'clock at Thirteenth and Main Streets.

The boys were on a bicycle going down Main Street slowly. A Main Street car going west appeared in front of them. The boys started to wheel to the right to avoid the car, when a two-horse tann got in the way. The lads saw they were in a dangerous position, and, to make things worse, another Main Street car approached, east-bound.

The only thing for the boys to do to escape serious injury and, possible death was to steer for the space between the two cars. This they did, and just at the moment one of the cars and the bicycle struck. The boys fell to the ground and the wheel was crushed into a shapeless mass.

Young Cosby's forehead and left eye were cut, his teeth were loosened, and his nose was bruised. Kelly came out of the wreck in better shape, his only injury being a small cut on the back of his being a smarl case head.

The boys were taken into Harris, Flippen Company's store and the ambulance was sent for. Dr. Rex responded and made the boys as comfortable as possible, after which they went home on Church Hill.

ADDRESSES THE BOYS.

Of the corps of professors at the University of Virginia when the principal of McGuire's School was there as a student, Professor Francis H. Smith, of the chair of physics, remains—loved and honored then and now as the model teacher and modest gentleman; a man whose example and influence made scholars and gentlemen of all who came in contact with him, so far as brain and heart in the subject made it possible.

That his boys might in some measure feel and be ennobled by this influence, besides having their minds turned towards university life as the highest and best in education, Mr. McGuire some time and talk to them. In pursuance of this engagement he addressed the chool yesterday in what he was pleased to call "a short talk." It was a simple, chaste and beautiful address, a model of style, full of highest purpose, a fouching appeal to every tender affection and noble impulse in his heartes—a talk that went from his heart to theirs.

Taking as his text that strange and yet most natural utterance of the heathen poet, "Maqua reverentla pueris debetur"—"Great reverence is due to boys"—he told them the deep meaning of it, describing the boy as the creature for whom the Creator has chosen that the work of ages past should be done, the present set in order and the future prepared—a mysterious thing, linked to earth and heaven by threads invisible and yet indestructible.

He warfied them that success at school or college but begins the work of life;

He warffed them that success at school or college but begins the work of life; that for each one is waiting that place in life, high or low, for which he shall prepare himself by self-developing labor at school or college; that a boy is to reverence himself, as holding a commission from on high to "pass the deed of kindness on" and do good in the world.

The Dailies We Read.

Pennsylvania has more daily newspapers than any other State in the Union—213, or a half dozen more than New York. There are only 381 daily papers in the entire South, while the entire West has 1.212. The total number in the United States and Territories reaches 2.338—but some of these have small excuse for existing.
